Beneath the leafy rooftop of the woods in Little Nook
Was a very hungry rabbit who was searching by the brook.

"My flowers have been stolen – almost every single bunch!"
Rabbit panicked, feeling sure that there was not enough for lunch.

He saw a clump of fur between some sticks upon the ground,
And it gave him an idea of where the culprit might be found.

So, Rabbit marched to Squirrel's house
to find his precious food,
And to tell his friend that taking it was really rather rude.

"Excuse me," shouted Rabbit, now with Squirrel in his sight,
"I was really looking forward to my marigold delight.

I know you took my flowers, please return them right away."

But it wasn't only Rabbit who was missing food that day.

"My acorns have been stolen!" Squirrel shouted with a cry,
"And the villain left a bite mark in my tree as they went by."

The friends knew just one creature
who would nibble on a tree,
And it gave them an idea of where the culprit now might be.

So, on they marched to Beaver's house to find their precious food,
And to tell their friend that taking it was
really rather rude.

"Excuse me," shouted Squirrel, now with Beaver up ahead,
"I was really looking forward to my toast
with acorn spread.

I know you took my acorns, would you kindly give them back?"

But it wasn't only Squirrel who was cross about her snack.

"My branches have been stolen!" snuffled
Beaver, full of grief.
"And I'm sure I saw a pointy tusk belonging to the thief."

The friends knew just one creature with a tusk of any sort,
And it gave them an idea of where the culprit might be caught.

So, on they marched to Boar's house, off to
find their precious food,
And to tell their friend that taking it was
really rather rude.

"Excuse me," shouted Beaver, now that Boar
was in her view,
"I was really looking forward to my branch and bramble stew.

I know you took my branches and I'd like them back, unchewed!"

But it wasn't only Beaver who was longing for her food.

"My berries have been stolen!" snorted Boar,
wide-eyed with shock.

"And the robber left some footprints leading right across that rock.

I don't know any creature who has footprints of that kind,
So I think that we should follow them to see what we can find."

The friends climbed up the rock, then clambered down the other side,
As they trekked to find their food with just the footprints as their guide.

Along a narrow path that formed a line between the trees...

Through the clump of thorny bushes that left scratches on their knees...

...Across some jagged rocks displaying shadows on the floor...

Till they came across a cave that had a boulder for a door.

The boulder started moving and the creatures
stood in fright,
As a silhouette inside began to shuffle into sight.

"A monster!" Rabbit shouted as the friends all turned to flee.

In the panic, Rabbit tripped, colliding head first with a tree.

The monster's hand loomed down and as it picked him up, he froze.
What a scary beast it was with hairy ears
and crusty toes!

"Don't eat me, please!" begged Rabbit, looking straight into its eyes...

...“I won’t eat you!” laughed the monster, as it chuckled with surprise.

“Oh, thank you!” answered Rabbit, as he brushed the dirt away.

“Don’t be frightened,” said the monster.
“I’m just checking you’re OK!”

The monster mumbled shyly as it bent down on one knee,
“I wondered if you all would like to join me for some tea.”

The monster clicked its fingers and the glow-worms
shined their lights
On the most amazing party full of wonderful delights.

“Our favourite foods!” said Rabbit, now the monster’s plan was clear,
And the creatures all said sorry for reacting with such fear.

“Please, join me,” said the monster,
as it headed for the seats.
“You can help yourself to cups of tea
and lots of yummy treats.”

When Rabbit's little tummy brimmed with marigold delight,
And when all the toast had gone with no
more acorn spread in sight,

When Boar was full of berries, and the stew was at an end,
They hugged and thanked the monster...

who was now their brand-new friend.

A Monster Surprise

Beneath the leafy roof of woods in Little Nook Lived a very long rabbit who was sleeping by the brook.

"My flowers have been stolen—what a thief!"
Squirt the squirrel said, as he saw the rabbit porcupine, porcupine that there was no one to teach him how to look after his flowers.

He was a clown of fur for certain because he had a red nose.
And it gave him one or two ideas.

So, Rabby marched to Squirt's house to find his precious food, and he was so angry that he was taking really rude notes.

"You know I should have been more careful with my flowers," he said, "but I was so excited about getting them back."

"I know you like my flowers, please return them right away!"
Squirt said, as he was running away and the day was ending.

"My flowers have been stolen!" Squirt shouted with a cry.
"And the critters left to sit in me in my tree on that way were."
